The Action of the Board of Trustees of CINCINNATI, May 14.-When the Executive Committee of the trustees of Lane Theological Seminary drew up the resolutions last month which declared for a strictly inerrant Bible. the whole Presbyterian Church awaited with interest the Board's action on these resolutions. If they were adopted it would indicate that Lane had cast its lot with Princeton and the strict orthodoxy represented by that institution. Their rejection would mean that Lane would stand with Union for liberalism inside the Presbyterian Church.

The preparation of these resolutions was the eulmination of a long continued attack upon Henry P. Smith and Edward D. Morris, two of the professors at Lane, both of whom are ardent supporters of Union Theological Seminary. Neither of them could consistently remain in the seminary's faculty if the resolutions were adopted. The Board was made to the pledge taken by the professors precluded the teaching of errancy, and that the members of the faculty were expected to accept this view. The resolutions further provided that the professors should subscribe to the pledge every three years. he annual meeting of the Lane Board has

The annual meeting of the Lane Board has just been held, and it resulted in a surprising victory for the liberal party. The Executive Committee was sharply called to account for the paper which it had adopted. This was part of the action which the trustees took on the subject by a vote of 13 to 5:

"The Board regrets that the time and the circumstances under which this paper of the Executive Committeee was adopted have seemed to mark it as a rebuke to the Board for its action taken in March, by which it approved of the paper presented by members of the faculty and declared that nothing is or will be taught in Lane contrary to the Scriptures and the standards of the Church. It was the unquestioned right of any trustee who did not agree with the majority of the Board to enter his protest and publish his reasons to the world. But the hesty publication by the Executive Committee of an official document purporting to be addressed to the Board of Trustees before it was presented to the Board bears the appearance of a discourtosy, calling for explanation.

"The paper of the Executive Committee seems to the Board to call in question the candor of the professors who signed the memorial to the trustees, implying that they did not sign as animo and in good faith."

These are the reasons the Board gives for disapproving of the resolutions:

"That it has not the power to formulate a new doctrine of the Stripture. The doctrine of our Church, to which we have all subscribed as ministers and Elders, in good faith, is found in Chapter I, of the Confession of Faith. To add to it, take from it, or with binding authority deline its meaning, belongs solely to the Church acting in the mode prescribed in its constitution.

"The Board has always believed the inaugural pledges of the professors to be taken at Church acting in the mode prescribed in its constitution.

"The Board has always believed the inaugural pledges of the professors to be taken examino; honestly, without mental reservation. But it has no such faith in its own infallibility as to be willing to say that what may seem to us 'their plain and obvious meaning' is the only meaning admissible; or to bind our professors 'to accept and conform to this Interpretation."

"The Board does not anticipate any good to be gained by the iteration and reiteration of the inaugural vow."

Bince the meeting of the Board three of the trustees, all of whom were on the Executive Committee which propared the unwelcome resolution, have resigned. They are all promisest laymen of Cincinnati Presbytery. Samuel Broadwell, who proposed the resolution, and Peter Rudolph Nefl were Nice-Presidents of the Seminary Board, and Alexander Me-Donald, the third to resign, was corresponding secretary.

The Bemilary Board, and Alexander MeDonaid, the third to resign, was corresponding secretary.

The Board's action is very unpalatable to many Presbyterian clergymen here. The flex.
Dr. J. G. Monfort, who is himself one of the trustees, says that the Board gives no attention to the views of Prof. Smith, although they are as widely known and objected to as those of Prof. Brings, though he has not retracted anything and declares that his views are consistent with Presbyterian standards.

Dr. Monfort says that the failure to act on Dr. Smith's views committe the seminary to his position, a belief in the historical untrustworthiness of parts of the Bible at least. The General Assembly, which meets this week, will undoubtedly be asked to speak for the Church in definite terms. If such action is taken Lane, like Union, will be forced out of the Presbyterian Church if its trustees and faculty hold to their present position.

The Methodist Conference Visits Lincoln. LINCOLN, Neb., May 14.-The Methodist Conference to the number of 801 spent the day here, enjoying the hospitality of the citizens of the capital. They were escorted to the Lausing Theatre, where the reception was held. Mayor Weir and Gov. Boyd welcomed them. After dinner the visitors were driven about the city, and visited the various State institutions, winding up at the Weslevan University, where the faculty and students entertained them.

Newport Cottagers Will Pay More Taxes. Newport, May 14. - The tax assessors have just completed their labors. Summer residants will pay a much larger proportion of taxes than formerly. There is a gain in real estate valuation of $1.157.500 over 1881, and a gain in personal estate of $145,650. Many of the leading cottagers have had their estates much increased in valua.

MRS. BALLOUF MAY GET WELL. Difficulties With Evangelist Ballouf Led to Her Attempt at Suleide.

The doctors at the Gouverneur Hospital say that Mrs. Mina Ballouf, the wife of Evangelist Ballouf, who took a dose of Paris green in the tenement at 127 Ludlow street on Friday night, will get well. Last Wednesday Mrs Ballouf and her two children were dispossessed from the tenement at 315 Broome street be cause Mr. Ballouf had not paid the rent. He had deserted her and gone to live in a furnished room somewhere in First street, she said. She went crying to Mrs. Steimle's in Ludlow street and asked to be taken n. When Mr. Ballouf was assistant pastor in the German church in Riving-ton street, near Ludlow, Mrs. Steinle attended the church. She says she had be-friended Mrs. Bailouf before, and when Mrs. Ballouf came with the children, on Wednes-day, she took them in. Mrs. Ballouf told her on Friday evening that her husband had promised to call on her on that day. He hadn't done day, she took them in. Mrs. Ballouf told her on Friday evesing that her husband had promised to call on her on that day. He hadn't done so, and she was going to a mission at Eighth street and Avenue C to see him. She found him in front of the mission talking to several young women, and began to upbraid him. One of the women slapped her face. She started back to Mrs. Steimle's. Her husband joined her, and they quarrelled all the way to the house. She left him suddenly, exclaiming: "This has gone too far: I will kill myself." She ran out of doors and tothedrug store on the corner. May Steimle followed her. Mrs. Ballouf asked the drug clerk to sell her some Paris green. The young woman told him not to do it, and took hold of Mrs. Ballouf's arm and tried to drag her out of the store. Mrs. Ballouf wrenched herself loose. "This isn't the only drug store in the city," she said, and she ran out of the door and jumped aboard a moving Avenue C car which was going up town. May Steimle went back home and told her parents and Mr. Ballouf what had happened. Mr. Ballouf said: "She's crazy, and nobody will sell her any poison." He didn't appear to be worried.

The two children of the couple had gone to bed half an hour later when Mrs. Ballouf returned. She had a little package in her hand. "I must see the children," she demanded. Mr. Ballouf said they were asleep and she could not see them. "Then I will kill myself." she exclaimed, and went down stairs again. She stopped in the lower hall a moment and said: "Good-by, husband. I forgive you. I can't live this life any more." A moment later she poured a part of the contents of the package into her mouth and around the corner for a moltand and the children were gone, and Mrs. Ballouf was in great pain. An ambulance took her to Gouverneur Hospital. The dootor pumped enough Paris green from her stomach to kill twe women, and probably got it out in time to save her life.

This story of the attempted suicide is told by Mrs. Steimle when the reporter called. Mrs. Gobler's with the chi

LITTLE FOR MRS. BLANC TO GET.

A Few Barrels of Something to Meet Her 846,000 Judgment.

Mrs. Blane's victory over her husband in their encounter in the courts was not so com-plete as it might have been. It is true that Judge Ingraham denied the applications of Mr. Blanc to enjoin Mrs. Blanc from enforcing her judgment for $46,000 against Mr. and Mrs. Blanc's Litofuge Company, and Deputy Sheriff James Carraher has proceeded under the levy which he made. All he has been able to secure, however, is a few casks of compound which Mr. Blanc says is worth from $50 to $100. A Mr. Elliott has served notice on the deputy sheriff that he owns the office furniture and fixtures, and the Sheriff will not sell them unless Mrs. Blanc secures him by a bond of indemnity. Mr. Blanc is waiting to see who will take sufficient interest in the case of his wife to become surety on such a bond.

Mr. Blanc says that the valuable asset of the Litofuge Company is one which cannot be attached by legal process, and that is the secret formula he possesses for making the litofuge compound.

Judge Ingraham announced yesterday that her judgment for $46,000 against Mr. and Mrs. compound.

Judge ingraham announced yesterday that he will entertain a motion to enjoin the distrihution of any money realized on the sale under Mrs. Blanc's judgment until her interest in the judgment is determined by the decision in Mr.
Blanc's action to sot the judgment aside.

TWO NEGRO POLICEMEN NOW.

Moses P. Cobb Will Prob by be Assigned to special Duty. Among the nineteen new policemen appointed yesterday on the Brooklyn force by Commissioner Hayden are Moses P. Cobb. a negro dock laborer, and Nicholas Callan, a middle-weight amateur boxer. Cobb was near the head of the eligible list, with $2.115, marks out of a possible 100 to his credit. He is 35 years old, and of fine physique. He is independent in politics.

Overton, who has had over a year's experience in uniform. Overton's appointment proved extremely distasteful to his white associates in the Adams street station, and there was almost a revolt among the men when they were compelled to share the same elesping apartment with him. The trouble ended when Overton was placed on special duty in a negro district in the First precinct and allowed to spend his nights at home. Cobb has been assigned to the Twelfth precinct, which contains the Crow Hill district, and probably he will be assigned like his colored associate down town, to special duty in the negro settlement. Calian has been assigned to the Classon avenue station.

The nineteen new policemen are the first appointed on sixty days probation under the new iaw. The taptains have been instructed to watch them carefully and report their fitness or unfitness for police work, so that those unfit may be dropped at the end of Cobb was near the head of the eligible list.
